

The Rio Reimagined

STATEMENT OF INTENT FOR THE RIO SALADO PROJECT

March 30, 2018

THIS STATEMENT OF INTENT ("Statement of Intent") is made and entered into as of the 30 day of March, 2018 by and among the City of Buckeye, City of Goodyear, Gila River Indian Community, City of Avondale, City of Phoenix, City of Tempe, Salt River Pima-Maricopa Indian Community, City of Mesa, Maricopa County, Arizona, and the Salt River Project Agricultural Improvement and Power District (each referred to herein as a "Party" and collectively as the "Parties").

The Parties to this Statement of Intent agree as follows:

SECTION 1. RECITALS

- A. The Rio Salado (or Salt River) bisects the Phoenix metropolitan area and while parties to this Statement of Intent have improved much of the Rio Salado additional potential can still be realized.
- B. The Onk Akimel O'Odham (Pima) and Xalychidom Piipaash (Maricopa) peoples of the Salt River Pima-Maricopa Indian Community utilized the Rio Salado since time immemorial to support traditions and agriculture.
- C. The Akimel O'otham (Pima) and Pee-Posh (Maricopa) peoples of the Gila River Indian Community have used the Rio Salado for farming since time immemorial. The Rio Salado remains an important cultural, religious and environmental resource for the Akimel O'otham and Pee-Posh peoples of the Gila River Indian Community.
- D. In 1966, Arizona State University Dean James Elmore of the College of Architecture launched an effort to study the "problems and opportunities" created by the Rio Salado. The research and urban planning efforts of the architecture students was published in a community report in 1969.
- E. Valley Forward, which is now known as Arizona Forward, was formed and selected to command the Rio Salado Project and, by 1976, with the direction of James Elmore and the Rio Salado Project Committee presented a master plan for redevelopment of approximately 40 miles of the Rio Salado as it traversed metropolitan Phoenix, Tempe and Mesa (the "Rio Salado Project").
- F. Valley Forward also promoted the 1980 Arizona legislation to institute the Rio Salado Development District (RSDD or the "District"), tasked with rallying support and preparing the strategic framework plan for the revitalization, funding and implementation of the Rio Salado Project. The District was comprised of a fifteen-member appointed Board of Directors from the Cities of Mesa, Tempe and Phoenix, Maricopa County and the State of Arizona. In 1982, the District unveiled the Rio Salado Master Plan to the public.

- G. Since then, some of the Valley's cities and communities have acted to improve the Rio Salado by developing parks, bike paths, bridges, habitat restoration, flood management and associated river enhancements. The Rio Salado has also undergone many significant projects related to flood control, water treatment, environmental quality, riparian restoration and public open space amenities which include the El Rio Watercourse Master Plan, Tres Rios Habitat Restoration and Wetlands, Rio Salado Oeste, Rio Salado Phoenix, Rio Salado Tempe, Rio Salado Mesa and Tempe Town Lake. Some of these projects and improvements have had a positive effect on tourism, employment, housing, the tax base, art and culture, recreation, economic development and wetland and riparian rehabilitation along portions of the river, yet the Rio Salado remains significantly underdeveloped given its economic potential.
- H. The Valley has not been alone in its historic quest to revitalize a monumental river, as metropolitan areas such as San Antonio, Dallas, Atlanta, New York City and Chicago have all implemented similar concepts to accentuate their rivers and natural landscapes. The Rio Salado Project, however, is one of the largest and oldest of such plans, and with the efforts as set forth herein could become one of the most noteworthy and historical environmental and economic developments in the Valley.
- I. U.S. Senator John McCain has recently championed and catalyzed the charge to complete the Rio Salado Project with the assistance of Arizona State University and the Parties to establish and form a working group to fuel the project and aide in the overall planning, review and approval process for the project.
- J. For purposes of this Statement of Intent, the Rio Salado Project shall encompass portions of the Salt River, the Gila River and the Confluence with Agua Fria River. The Rio Salado Project is now envisioned to extend over approximately 45 miles along the river's corridor and up to a mile wide spanning the City of Buckeye, City of Goodyear, Gila River Indian Community, City of Avondale, City of Phoenix, City of Tempe, Salt River Pima-Maricopa Indian Community, and the City of Mesa, as lying within Maricopa County and as depicted on the attached Exhibit A.
- K. The Parties believe that the Rio Salado Project has the potential to be a grand vision for civic identity - an iconic landmark for the Valley which fosters significant economic, recreational and regional water management value of the Rio Salado.
- L. The Parties recognize that a variety of natural resources exist within the Rio Salado Project, some of which are subject to private property rights and have commercial value.
- M. It is the desire of the Parties hereto, along with Arizona State University and other stakeholders, developers and the greater public to unite and create a cooperative public-private relationship, and to organize, design and implement the Rio Salado Project to its fullest economic, recreational and regional water management capacities.
- N. The Parties recognize that the development of the Rio Salado Project will be a long-term, resource intensive project, which will require each Party's cooperation and working cooperatively with adjacent landowners and other stakeholders; but it is also recognized that the Parties' cooperation and the success of the Rio Salado Project will have substantial positive long-term primary and secondary benefits to the Valley and the State of Arizona.

- O. By entering into this Statement of Intent, it is the desire of each Party hereto to collaborate on potential, design, implementation and operation, among other things, with respect to the Rio Salado Project within each Party's respective jurisdiction.
